As one enters the Utah artillery camp to support the guardhouse entrance one sees ernment could acquire Florida and addaction islands and the Louisiana territory by purchase. Texas by annexation and California by conquest, it could acquire Hawaii by gift. Mr. Newiands said the Hawaiian and Philippine islands were improperly connected by some, when by nature and import they were distinct, the Philippine question involving a policy of territorial expansion, to which he objected, while all involved in the Hawaiian question was purely one of teritorial defense and commedital expansion. He spoke of the importance of insular control, as appreciated by all great powers, and atsued for the control of Hawaii as a base of supplies and naval operations. He suggested the disaster that probably would have resulted to America had Spain been a powerful naval nation, with Cuba and Porto Rico as a base of the control of Rico as a base of the control of the control of Hawaii as a base of supplies and naval operations. Mr. Newlands contended it would be 'insufferable arrogance' upon America's part to insist upon the con-tinuance of Hawalian independence, after refusing to accept the responsibility of its government, and he pre-dicted the islands would go to some other power in the near future if we did not take them. He said Pearl hardid not take them. He said Pearl har-bor was held only by treaty, and Ameri-can control could be terminated at the will of either party. He predicted a great growth of the American merchant marine and a corresponding increase of the navy in Pacific waters. The great commercial fight would be for the trade of the Orient and Hawaii would prove America in scoring her

OPPOSED BY BELL.

Mr. Bell (Colo.), followed, opposing the resolution. He attacked the existing republic as being an eligarchy, and the offer of the islands for annexation as being made by a few and in utter disregard of the wheles of the vast majority of the people who reside in the islands. He contended for the right of all people to be governed in accordance with their will.

Continuing, Mr. Bell argued that the population was undestrable and that the location of the islands in the tropical climate made it unlikely that a peo-

Mr. Henry (Rep., Inv.) spoke for the resolutions on the ground of strategic value. Illustrating this value, he declared that Penery, after his great victory at Mantia, would be helpless and beyond the possibility of ald from home, were the Hawalian islands controlled to be the Hawalian islands controlled by hostile hands.

BLAND'S OPPOSITION

Mr. Biand (Dem., Mo.) followed in opposition, directing his remarks to a plea for delay in disposing of the Hawaiian question until after the concluwainin question until after the conclu-sion of the war. He protested against urging annexation as a necessary war measure, and begged the house to papie in what seemed, and what prom-ised to be a mad course of wild legis-lation, under protense of it being es-sential to the proper conduct of the war. The very fact, he said, that the government was sending out expeditions and withdrawing all ships from the California coast showed how also lutely secure was that coast, and how unnecessary was the present emergency life is either a heaven or a hell, just as the rank and file choose to make it. The camp is a temporary despotism "On the Brink of Despotism," and motto is "obey." They have surrender-ed their right to think or choose for themselves. All the functions of free themselves. All the functions of free agency are performed by command. They are told when to get up, when to eat, when to do almost everything. About the only time they are allowed to do as they plase, to live for themselves, as it were, is between recall at 7:20 and tattoo at 9:40 p. m. It is during this time that the boys form acquaintances and friendships that will last through life and place all those who have served together in a class by themselves, to be known as "comracles."

Mr. Newlands (Sil. Nev.) then addressed the house in advocacy of annexation. The pending resolutions were introduced by him. He was interrupted by Mr. Cannon (Rep. Ills.), mexation. The pending resolutions were introduced by him. He was interrupted by Mr. Carmon (Rep. Hls.), who presented and asked unanimous consent for the passage of an emergency bill to appropriate $417,151 now carried by the sandry civil bill, to pay the Bering sea award, but Mr. Biand (Dem., Mo.) objected. Mr. Cannon said that the time for payment would expire Friday and the sundry civil bill would not pass before that day.

Section 6 is the merriest rat in the camp. The men, led by the inimitable Billy Edwards, are singing coon songs to the accompaniment of a mandolin and guitar, purchased by the donations from the section. They are an ideal crew for fun-making. Darkness fills the tent of section 5: all its members are statistics among the other tents. In the tent of section s, an its memoers are visiting among the other tents. In the tent of section 4 a quiet game of cards is progressing in one part. Off in another corner, a big fellow is stretched out in the sand, sleeping, after a day on guard. Section 3 is distinctly a story-telling section. Gathered around the flickering candle, ten men sit talking of home and relating anecdotes of the trip. The conduct of American missionaries and others who have gone to Hawaii was attacked as it had resulted in a successful conspiracy to deprive the natives of their property and self-government. The existence of learnesty in the islands was commented upon as a drawback to annexation.

Mr. Bell concinded by saying the annexation of Hawaii would be accepted as a tractical abendonment of the Monroe doctrine, because it would be reaching out and an exability and the solutions of the DEU Appears and self-government. It is midnight in camp.
